

TRIARCHIC INTELLIGENCE AS A PREDICTOR OF DECISION - MAKING AMONG EDUCATION FACULTY STUDENTS AT QASSIM UNIVERSITY

SALEM ALI SALEM AL – GHARAIBEH, PH. D.
Associate Professor Of Educational Psychology
Qassim University - Kingdom Of Saudi Arabia

ABSTRACT_ This Study Aimed at Detect The Ability of Triarchic Intelligence in Predicting Decision-making. To Achieve the Objectives of The Study, Sternberg Triarchic Intelligence Test (Alfedhli, [1]) and Decision-making Scale (Ibrahim, [2]) Were Applied to a Sample of (276) From Education Faculty Students at Qassim University. The Results Showed a high Levels of Both Triarchic Intelligence and Decision-making, and High Positive Correlation Between Them, The Results Also Revealed That Analytical Intelligence Was The Strongest Predictor of Decision-making, Then Came Practical Intelligence, and at Last Came Creative Intelligence. Finally, Results Were Discussed in The Light of Theoretical Literature and Previous Studies, and Some Recommendations Were Suggested.*

KEY WORDS: Triarchic Intelligence, Successful intelligence, Decision – Making.*