

THE LEVEL OF AMBITION AND ITS RELATIONSHIP TO PSYCHOLOGICAL ADJUSTMENT WHICH WAS CONDUCTED ON A SAMPLE STUDY STUDENTS AT SHAQRA UNIVERSITY

Mohammed, Hual, Alotabi
Assistant Professor of Psychology
Faculty of Education, Shaqra University

Aesa, Furge, AL Azezi
Assistant Professor of Measurement and Evaluation
Faculty of Education , Shaqra University

ABSTRACT_ The current study tackles the level of ambition and its relationship to psychological adjustment which was conducted on a sample study of male and female students at Shaqra University. Study used a questionnaire for data collection. Study community is composed of all students at Shaqra university. Sample is composed from 498 male and female student. Results showed There has been a positive statistical significance between the level of ambition and psychological adjustment, i.e. the level of ambition to psychological adjustment is in direct relationship, therefore, whenever the level of ambition increase, The level of female students ambition is higher their parallel boys according to this study, and Study sample has shown that the level of psychological adjustment of male students is higher than their parallel female students. The study recommended urge teachers and lecturers to promote spirit of competition, hardworking and ambition of students and urge them to be good example for students to follow. and there is should be a prize and motivation given to those with higher ambitions who have accomplished success and progress so that they could be influential individuals to others.*

KEYWORDS: Pearson Correlation, T. Test, One Way ANOVA, Cronbach,s Alpha.*