

EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES CONTRIBUTION IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY AMONG FEMALE STUDENTS IN HUMANITIES FACULTIES IN KING SAUD UNIVERSITY

NADIA AL-MUTAIRI

ABSTRACT_ The study aimed to investigate Extracurricular Activities contribution in the development of social responsibility among female students in humanities faculties in King Saud University. To achieve study objectives a self-administrated questionnaire was developed and distributed to a sample of female students amounting (426 students). Data analysis indicated that there is an impact of extracurricular Activities contribution in the development of social responsibility among female students in humanities faculties in King Saud University. The analysis indicated also that there are obstacles that hinder female students in participating in extracurricular Activities. The study also found that there are difference in extracurricular Activities contribution in the development of social responsibility among female students in humanities faculties in King Saud University due to differences in (education level, faculty and accumulated average).