

THE EFFECTIVENESS OF COUNSELING PROGRAM FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY AMONG OF TAIF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

GHALEB MOHAMMED AL-MASHIKI

Dep. Psychology

Taif University

ABSTRACT_ Current study aims to verify the effectiveness of the counseling program to the development of social responsibility. The researcher used Experimental method , and has been applied to a sample consisting of (30) students. The study sample has been divided in two groups: The experimental groups (15), And the control groups (15).*

The development of social scale has been applied to the study sample group. The experimental groups has been exposed to the study program who is based on the reality therapy. Results: statistically significant differences between the degrees ranking average in development of social among two group After the program and high level of social development scale development scale to the favor the experimental group members. This proves the effectiveness of counseling program in the development of social responsibility.

KEYWORD: counseling program, social responsibility.*