

THE CONCEPT OF YOUTH FOR SOME ABNORMAL BEHAVIORAL PRACTICES AND THEIR MOTIVATIONS

ALI A. AL-BAKER

Professor of counseling and psychotherapy Assistant
Faculty of Education
King Saud University

ABSTRACT_ study aimed to recognize the concept of youth for some behavioral practices abnormal and their motives. Tool has been built for collecting information which is a questionnaire consisting of three parts (general information, abnormal practices 39 phrases, causes 26th phrases), which applied after checking the validity and reliability to a sample of 120 college students and after the information gathering and analysis in accordance with the objectives and study questions The most prominent results that have been reached. to assess the behavioral practices from the perspective of the study sample was not affected by variables Aldemaqraivih studied (the father and the mother's education, the country of origination, arrangement between the brothers, as well as the economic level of the family) as the result of analysis of variance, according to each variable is statistically significant at the level of (0.05). The study sample practices anomalous rating shows they understand the nature of these practices and considered abnormal, according to our understanding of the cultural, social and classification was a high rate of (0.73) for all practices various dimensions. The reasons why young people to abnormal practices from the point of the study sample a variety of religious and personal, psychological and social dimensions of view and assert its influence high rate of (0.73). This underlines the importance of reviewing in satisfying the needs of young people and study their problems and directing them according to age characteristics and needs of personal, psychological and social.*

KEY WORDS: youth, abnormal behavioral practices, motivations.*